her title then and now.

Peter Anderson has put on 45 pounds. But as 9174's Best Athlete, he can still see his way around a softball diamond well enough to aid the Cohasset Independents Softball Team win the Scituate Men's Softball League Championship last week. Still living in Cohasset, Peter is a house painter.

Why Teachers Go Mad was the infamous superlative that went to Sue Kelly. When asked what that meant exactly, Sue replied, "I was just a wise kid." We think the title was the result of an over-demanding, inquisitive and sensitive mind. Sue has been working in Boston, living in Scituate and driving everyone mad. Just kidding, Sue.

One of the class ravers was still raving. Terry England, the former class treasurer and organizer of the gala, graduated this year from UMass, Amherst, with both sociology and elementary education degrees. No one escapes UMass without raving. Terry spent a year student teaching in England, and plans to return there shortly to teach primary school.

Barry and Brian Hines, twin brothers who served as class president and vice-president, respectively, are on their predictable roads to success. Barry just completed his studies in economics at Harvard and plans a career in Washington, D.C., with a management consulting firm. Brian graduated last year from Holy Cross and has been employed as a sales representative for

Library Story

Hours Continue

The Paul Pratt Memorial Library will continue its series of family story hours on Monday, Aug. 20 at 7:30 p.m. in the children's room. School-aged children and their parents are invited to attend.

Diane Farrell, Children's Services Librarian for the Eastern Massachusetts Region, will tell American tall tales. Ms. Farrell is highly knowledgeable in the field of children's literature and has been a guest story-teller in libraries throughout eastern Massachusetts. This will be the final program in the series and it will end at about 8:30 p.m.

Xerox Corporation in Lexington.

Pierce Cray, voted Most Likely to Succeed in 1974, would also receive that prestigious honor today. Pierce graduated from Harvard in 1978, took a year to work as political fund raiser, and will start studies at Harvard Law School in the fall.

Other responses to the questions of the day, "What have you been doing and what are you going to do?" came in sporadically: The only class officer who wasn't present was former Secretary Megan Lynch — she is believed to be working in Boston at an advertising agency. Word had it that Ernie Wright has been doing very well with his own import-export business in China. Mary Jane Trettis said that although she has graduated from Boston University and is employed at a personnel agency in Boston, she still hasn't any real idea of what she wants to do.

Hostess Karen surmised that many of the graduates have settled in the Boston area, and that only 15 or so have gotten married. Karen, herself, graduated from Parson's School of Design in 1978, and has been working for an Italian firm, Gipetto, in New York City. Her work will soon take her to Italy... what a tough break!

Well, the class couple broke up, but the pair voted Cutest. Greg Hoffman and Kay Martin, were still endowed with their good looks.

John Cadaou didn't graduate with the class, but obviously felt enough of it to drive up from Virginia for the reunion to see the old gang. And after only finding out about it the Thursday night before, Disy Bloomfield flew in from Colorado, to combine a week's visit with her folks with the chance to see her friends.

Most would agree they would travel any distance to be together again.

CLASS OF '74 at High School held reunion in Summer of '79 and enjoying occasion were, from left, Terry England, Carla Grace, Karen Gordon and Joe Dooley.
